

Master and officers may be supported and sustained, which has given rise to the following tin-pot epigram—
"Support the Master and the officers,
O Lord! as runs our chaplain's wily ditty,
In reasonable prayer a God never hears—
He knows that they are supported by the city."
In conclusion the author says—"I left it (the House of Correction) to peace and clarity with all connected with it, and have endeavored to state the simple truth, as it appeared to me."

Correspondence of the Boston Morning Post.

Washington, Oct. 9, 1837.

The House was occupied about an hour this morning, in receiving petitions and remonstrances against the annexation of Texas, and against the continuance of slavery and the slave trade in the District of Columbia. After this business was disposed of, Mr C. Mercer, of Virginia, from the Select Committee on the revival of the Rules of the House, asked leave to report two amendments to the standing Rules. The first was, to direct, that whenever a motion to adjourn is made, the hour of the day shall be noted on the Journal. The second was, to order, that when a vote for adjournment is taken and carried, no member shall leave his seat till the speaker shall have left his.

Mr Duncan, of Ohio, was of opinion that the proposition of Mr Mann ought to be amended in some way or other; for said he, suppose, after the House has adjourned the speaker is disposed to remain in his chair all night, shall we not be required to keep our seats too!

Mr Byrum of North Carolina, was of opinion that the House had already submitted sufficiently to the spirit of reformation that is abroad. It has already pulled off the hats of the members—driven ardent spirits from the capitol, and cut off a full portion of parliamentary freedom. He was opposed to the innovation. The subject was further debated by Mr John Quincy Adams, and Mr Mercer, for about an hour, and it all resulted in the adoption of the first amendment, and in the rejection of the second.

A proposition to publish an additional edition of the documents in reference to the annexation of Texas, called out a tart debate between Mr John Quincy Adams, and Mr Griffin of South Carolina. Mr Adams wished to have the whole of the documents printed, and Mr Griffin only desired the publication of detached parts of them. Mr Adams thought that if this were done, injustice would be done to the present and former President, and he would not consent to the publication of garbled documents.

Mr Griffin denied that he intended anything of the kind; but before any decision was had, the orders of the day were demanded, and the Treasury Note Bill was once more taken up.

Mr Cambreleng appealed to all sides of the House to pass the bill without further delay; and in an especial manner, addressed himself to the representatives from all the commercial cities, and solicited their aid to adopt a measure which must be of the first importance to the commerce of the country.

Mr Underwood, of Kentucky, said a few words, expressive of his willingness and anxiety to carry the measure together with an amendment that he proposed a few days ago, but which was rejected.

Mr Sargent of Pennsylvania, was opposed to the bill, and said that he was satisfied that Congress had the same constitutional right to issue Treasury Notes, that it had to charter a National Bank; and of the latter, he had not had a doubt for the last twenty years. But he doubted the expediency of issuing them. The bill, in all probability, will be kept under debate all day; and, it is possible that it may not be passed at all. The opposition know that it ought to pass; they know that its passage is expected and demanded; but as they know that its passage will add to the popularity of the administration, and be gratifying to the people, they are determined to defeat the bill if possible, and thus gratify their own malice and pugnacity, by prostrating the hopes of the AMERICAN MERCHANT. The Indian Councils are yet in session, but, as I am confined to the House of Representatives I cannot attend them.

Yours, &c. CONSIDER STANDISH.

P. S. I open this note after sealing, to add a word. "O! Cries, Pistols for two." Just as I had closed my note, Mr Henry A. Wise went to the seat of the Hon. John H. Prentiss of New York, and the following dialogue took place:—Wise—Is your name John H. Prentiss. Prentiss—Yes. Wise—Are you the editor of the Cooperstown Herald. Prentiss—Yes. Wise—Are you in the habit of writing letters for that paper. Prentiss—Yes. Wise—Then by God sir, I come to tell you, that you have written a tissue of falsehoods and lies about me and my friends, for which I shall hold you personally responsible. Prentiss—Yes. Wise—By God sir, if as a member of this Congress, you cannot better employ yourself than in writing lies, you had better go home! Do you understand me. Prentiss—Yes. Mr Wise left Mr Prentiss, and the question of personal responsibility is to be decided hereafter. Mr Wise, I fancy, has at last caught a tartar.

In the Senate, on Monday Oct. 9.—On motion of Mr Grundy, the Senate proceeded to consider the joint resolution, authorizing and directing the Postmaster General, to receive in advance the postage on letters sent by the Express Mail.

After a few remarks from Mr Knight and Mr Grundy (in reply), the resolution was ordered to a third reading. The bill to limit the fees to be received by the District Attorneys for the extension of merchant's bonds was debated, amended and finally passed to a third reading.

The bill to extend the operation of certain laws was then read a third time and passed.

Warehouse System.—The Senate was moved by Mr Wright to take up the bill to authorize the deposit of merchandise in the public stores in certain cases.

Mr King of Alabama, objected to taking up the bill, because of the impossibility of pressing it through the other house.

Mr Calhoun coincided in this view.

After a few words from Mr Wright, the question was agreed to—ayes 20, nays 7.

On motion of Mr Buchanan, the bill was amended so as to exempt from its operation iron imported for railroads.

Georgia Election.—38 counties.

Recapitulation.

1837 1835

Schley, 15508 Schley, 15560

Gilmer, 20441 Dougherty, 18181

Of the Senators chosen, 17 are States Rights men and 10 are Union men.

Extract of a letter from a member of Congress, dated Washington, Oct. 5.

We have the most cheering intelligence from Georgia. Let the Governor's election terminate as it may, the general principles of the Message will be sustained by the great body of the people. Both candidates are uncompromisingly opposed to a National Bank.—Balt. Rep.

Com. Elliott.—There is no officer in the United States Navy, who has been more generally, or shamefully abused, than Commodore J. D. Elliott, who is now in command of our squadron in the Mediterranean. The reasons are obvious—first, because he has dared to come forward, and claim to share the honor of the victory on Lake Erie with the late O. H. Perry;—and secondly, because he ordered the bust of General Jackson to be placed on the bows of the "Constitution." Commodore Elliott's name is ever in the whig journals, and mentioned in connection with some subject, which will enable them to pour upon this meritorious officer a share of their "envy, hatred and malice." A statement is now going the rounds of the papers which represents Commodore Elliott to have "shaken his cane over the head of a lieutenant without the slightest cause, and then ordering him on board his ship and suspending him from duty."

This "extraordinary transaction" which is going to make Commodore Elliott so unpopular with the "American public" is stated to have taken place on a race course in Mahon, in April last. We will not believe that Commodore Elliott should so far have forgotten himself in a strange land, on a race course, in the presence of British officers, and, as is mentioned, without the "slightest cause" as to shake his cane over the head of a lieutenant who was serving on board his own ship—the very statement carries upon it the impress of improbability, if not the shame of falsehood.

The opposition are obliged to accord praise to the conduct of the administration sometimes, notwithstanding it goes against their grain so—ex. gr., the New York Gazette.

"Our Government and the Texas Question.—The President of the United States has done great credit to himself and to the country, by the course he has taken on this subject. The letter of Mr Forsyth in answer to the application of the Texian Minister is just such a document as it became our Government to present on the occasion, and whatever may be our opinion of Mr Van Buren's acts in general, he deserves unqualified commendation for this. The people of the United States we trust, will be ready and willing to accord their hearty approbation of the just and dignified ground taken by the Government, and to support it in its maintenance."

The New York Star is most respectfully and particularly informed that the Boston Post never said that the Governor and Council of Maine had counted the votes and found that Kent was not elected. The lie was brought into the world with a litter of similar ones by that ancient and prolific mother of falsehood, "the old Portland Gazette."

A whig chancellor in Mississippi has committed a violent assault upon the person of the editor of the Natchez Free Trader—whereupon sundry whig papers are chuckling very peculiarly. To-morrow these same organs will probably be retailing their hypocritical cant about the sacredness of law and good order, and the freedom of the press.

The editor of the Atlas would probably hold himself indebted to the editor of the Post for the information, whether the Federal Chief Magistrate of this Commonwealth, in the year 1793, held any office under the State government while a candidate, in the years 1796 and 7. X

The Portland Advertiser exclaims—

The Troy Budget is sucking the juice of the grape, and adding to his own account, in profusion. This is too bad when there is so much good water at his feet in the Hudson.

Mr Robinson, a book-binder in Baltimore, has drawn a prize of $10,000 in a lottery. Stop where you are, sir, remembering the proverb that lightning never strikes twice in the same place.

The parsons are christening about all the new born female infants of London by the name of Victoria. The juvenile Queen will not be very proud of some of her namesakes.

It is very sickly at Fort Gibson, according to the accounts from the West. On the 1st September, of the 220 dragoons at that place, 70 were on the sick list.

Mrs Brown, a broiler keeper in Nashville, who shot a Mr Jackson with a pistol, has been sent to the penitentiary for two years.

There is a hen in New Orleans, as we learn from the Picayune, that lays five eggs a day. She ought to be sent into one of the Thanksgiving-keeping states.

POLICE COURT.

George W. Gellens—sometimes called "Cathole"—was proved to be a German, and what is worse, "dunder an blitzen" he was also found of the Hollands. One month in the House of Correction was all they could do for him; he kaze as how his wife want entirely well.

Little Margaret confessed that she did steal sugar and molasses, but only to eat. Her father appeared in her defence, and said—"O, please your Honor, the child be crazed, entirely." His Honor was not prepared to dispute the fact, and thought the best place to get her uncrazed entirely was the House of Reformation.

Sam Jones admitted that he was considerably corned, when he kicked up a row; but thought "it was extremely mean for a man who pretended to be any sort of a man, to take notice of what a ch p did when a little mite in liquor." The Judge was much inclined to think that $20, and costs, would about rectify matters.

Revolution at Santa Fe.—The St Louis Republican of the 21st inst. publishes advices from Santa Fe, in New Mexico, under date of the 12th August, from which it appears that a revolution had broken out in that place, which resulted in the assassination of the Governor and all his principal officers, and the installation of Jose Gonzales, the rebel chief, as Governor of the State. The revolutionists made a triumphal entrance into the town, when the functions of Government were assumed by the new Governor, assisted by Rafael Garcia, second in command of the troops. The account states that the priests were very obnoxious to the revolutionists, and many of them had suffered personal violence. The country is in a sad and ruinous condition.

George went die—so it's no use to try to kill him.

A most striking lithograph has recently been received from Europe, by some of our musical stores. It is George Washington Dixon's likeness, surrounded by a wreath. In the upper sky are gods and goddesses, with scrolls in hand, on which are inscribed the "Fireman's Call," "Marseilles Hymn," "The Sea," and "The Judgment." The likeness is from a drawing by J. B. Schœner, and the print purports to have been published by Engelmann, London—which is as true as many other things which are believed.

Value of Real and Personal Estate in the City of New York.—It appears that the aggregate value of Real and Personal Estate for 1836, was $309,500,920

do 1837, is 263,747,350

The decrease of the value of Real Estate is $37,292,194—Personal, $9,518,410.

The collector of the customs and his deputy, at Toronto, U. C., were severely beaten, and the former thrown into the water, while attempting to prevent the landing of some smuggled goods from the State of New York. The official Gazette contains a proclamation offering fifty pounds for legal evidence concerning the matter.

A New Orleans paper of the 21st says:—

"We begin to be apprehensive that the yellow fever is much more malignant and fatal in its effects in our neighboring city of Natchez than is generally known, or perhaps conceded. On the 23d and 24th ult. the disease greatly increased."

The Charleston, S. C. Mercury is decidedly in favor of the disconnection between government and the banks—it says—

"Let us close this dark chapter of agitation and mischief—let us make peace between politics and money."

Jim Crow attracted to the Tremont Theatre on Monday evening the largest audience of the season. He is more genteel in taking his steps than before, but far less amusing. R. refinement has spoiled his parts.—Advocate.

We agree with the Advocate, that Jim's refinement spoils him. We want to see the boots and the steps that he used before he visited Almack's.

Messrs. Schlegel and Pachier with Mlle. Leidl, the Tyrolean Minstrels, lately arrived in this country, appear at the Tremont theatre to-night. The high reputation they acquired on the other side of the Atlantic, will ensure a full attendance of musical amateurs.

"The National"—The Gnome King has not received half the praise to which it is fairly entitled. Without dispute, it is by far the most unique and effective scenic exhibition ever produced in this city. It is up for to-night.

Attention!—We would not have it forgotten that this is the day that is to be rendered memorable in warlike annals, by the parade of the gallant Mason Street Light Infantry, under command of that weighty champion in the cause of Mars, Capt. Townsend. The warriors dine at Fisher's, in Roxbury, at 3 P. M.

Great Cry and little Wool.—Mr Editor—How does it happen that a boy just 9 1/2 years old, who was never in Spain in his life, should be Captain of her Catholic Majesty's body guard? Is her majesty surrounded by babies—or is it a fact that the national domain is protected by boys in petticoats? Any elucidation of the matter will greatly oblige all the true blues, as well as whig whiners, who do not understand the thing.

New Orleans, Oct. 2.—Loss of the schooner Pennsylvania.—The ship Amelia, Thompson, from New York, reports that on the 23d ult., in lat. 32 23, lon. 73, fell in with a vessel bottom up, on which were two men in a very exhausted state; they stated that it was the schr. Pennsylvania of Saybrook, Williams; that she sailed from New York on the 10th ult., with 21 passengers, and that the crew consisted of six persons, including officers; that she was capsized on the night of the 16th, after the passengers had retired to their berths. The captain and crew were on deck at the time; supposed to be immediately lost, as well as seven passengers drowned below, the remainder of them continued to survive floating about in the hold among the cargo until the succeeding Monday, when two of them, Wilson and Dougherty, by great exertions, effected their escape through the cabin, and gained the bottom of the vessel; they could hear the cries of those below during the first day, but on the second they ceased.

In the hope of finding some of them alive, Capt. T. sent the boat with tools to scuttle the vessel; they found one young man alive, but quite senseless, and shockingly bruised; the others were floating around, all dead. This man was taken on board the Amelia, where every thing was done to restore him to animation, but without effect, as he expired on the second day. Wilson and Dougherty are now on board the A. quite recovered.
